

CEO

```
graph TD; CEO[CEO] --> CMO[Chief marketing Officer]; CEO --> CFO[Chief Financial Officer]; CEO --> CTO[Chief Technical Officer]; CEO --> STM[Support Team Manager]; CEO --> CO[Creative Officer]; CEO --> HRO[Human Resources Officer]; CMO --> MD[Marketing Department6 employees]; CFO --> FD[Finance Department4 employees]; CTO --> ITD[IT Department:-Code Maintanace: 3 employees-Sys and Net admin: 2-3 employees]; STM --> CS[Customer Service4 employees]; CO --> CD[Creative Department:-Software: 3-5 employees-Graphical Design: 3 employees]; HRO --> HRD[HR Department2 employees];
```

The diagram is an organizational chart. At the top is a box labeled 'CEO'. A vertical arrow points down from the CEO box to a horizontal line. From this horizontal line, six vertical arrows point down to six boxes arranged in a row. These boxes are: 'Chief marketing Officer', 'Chief Financial Officer', 'Chief Technical Officer', 'Support Team Manager', 'Creative Officer', and 'Human Resources Officer'. From each of these boxes, a vertical arrow points down to a corresponding department box. The department boxes are: 'Marketing Department 6 employees' (under CMO), 'Finance Department 4 employees' (under CFO), 'IT Department: -Code Maintanace: 3 employees -Sys and Net admin: 2-3 employees' (under CTO), 'Customer Service 4 employees' (under STM), 'Creative Department: -Software: 3-5 employees -Graphical Design: 3 employees' (under CO), and 'HR Department 2 employees' (under HRO).

Chief marketing
Officer

Marketing
Department
6
employees

Chief Financial Officer

Finance
Department
4
employees

Chief Technical Officer

IT
Department:
-Code Maintanace:
3 employees
-Sys and Net admin:
2-3 employees

Support
Team
Manager

Customer Service
4
employees

Creative Officer

Creative Department:
-Software:
3-5 employees
-Graphical Design:
3 employees

Human Resources
Officer

HR
Department
2
employees